of Religious Biography that we have met with for a long time. It has been reprinted by Mr. Carter from the Edinburgh edition. The subject of the Memoir was the daughter of Rev. Robert Lundie, of Kelso, and wife of Rev. W. Wallace Duncan, of Cleish. She was distinguished for a powerful and highly refined intellect, great natural loveliness of person and character, and eminent piety from early childhood to the day of her death.

TALES AND SKETCHES Second Series. By Miss SEDGWICK New York: Harper & Brothers. The contents of these volumes have been collected from the various Magazines and Annuals in which they first appeared. The author kindly hints that if these Tales and Sketches, like the bundle of faggots, are found to gain value by being bound together, she may collect others that are now scattered and forgotten. She need not fear the estinate which the public will place upon the volume thus modestly introduced to their notice, or delay for a moment the work of collecting other and similar productions of her gifted pen. lected lessons, upon subjects familiar to little children, and adapted in style and language to their comprehension. They are mostly illustrated with engravings, which render them more attractive and give efficient aid to the acquisition of knowledge. The book is at once pleasing and instructive and the lessons it inculcates will all tend to the formation of correct moral principles.

C. S. FRANCIS & Co. have received 'A Discourse of the Baconian Philosophy, by SAMUEL TY-LER, of the Maryland Bar.' It is a duodecimo volume of 178 pages, and is evidently the work of a strong and vigorous mind, penetrated with the highest admiration of Bacon's Philosophy. It is a pity that so good a book should have been so execrably printed. This, however, is not the fault of Messrs. Francis & Co., the work having been executed by a Printer in the interior of Maryland, where good type and paper are not as plenty as they are in New-York.

ROBERT CARTER, 58 Canal-street, has published the sixth edition of a work entitled 'Sorrowing, yet Rejoicing; or Narrative of Recent Successive Bereavements in a Minister's Family.' The same publishers have also issued 'The Assembly's Shorter Catechism,' and 'A Catechism for Young Children, by Rev. John Brown.'

PARLEY'S PERENNIAL PRESENT.'-This is the appropriate title given by the publishers to the bound volume of Parley's Magazine for 1844. As a Present for Children, it is no less beautiful than instructive. C.S. Francis & Co., 252 Broadway.

W. H. GRAHAM, 160 Nassau-street, has received 'Self-Denial, a Tale, by Mrs. Hofland, uniform with other Tales by the same author.-

GRAHAM, 160 Nassau-street, has No. IV. of the Illustrated Edition of Mrs. Hall's Sketches of Irish Character.

MURBER FROM DRUNKENNESS.—On Thursday last, says the Marion (Va.) Pioneer, Mr. Peter B. Ritter, residing within five or six miles of this place, invited a number of his neighbors to assist him in chopping wood—made what is commonly called a wood-chopping frolic. During the day, the hands betook temselves to an unrestrained indulgence in strong drink. Some words passed between the deceased, Mr. Starrett, and the accused, Messrs. Coon and Booher. In the evening, about dark, the alteration was renewed. Some warm words passed, and when all were about retiring to their respective homes, Coon struck Starrett with a Club, and felled him. While falling and prostrate, Booher also struck him twice with his fist.

The Fire of the Flint-An Example worthy of Imitation.

The gallant Whigs of Old Painted Post, ever vigilant, ever faithful to themselves and the Whig cause, but particularly so in the recent disastrous campaige, having discharged their whole duty, are fair from being discouraged at the untoward result. Whether Steuben gives her 700 Loco-Foco majority or rolls up deuble that amount, Painted Post aiways throws into the scale her increased Whig majority. Though she has lest over fifty of her gallant Whigs by removal, the last two years, she gave at the recent election ninety-three majority for Clay, being an increased majority of twenty four over that of 1840; and the smoke of the contest has scarcely cleared away before she beats the Reveille, and her unbroken phalanx is in battle array, as will be seen abroken phalanx is in battle array, as will be seen

On the retiring of the committee, Hon. A. B. Dickinson was loudly called for, and as soon as the prolonged thunder of applause with which his appearance was greeted, subsided, favored the meeting with a most effective speech, full of encouragement and promise to the Whig cause. He exhorted the Whigs to stand fast in their present organization, and esohew Nativism and Abolitionism as only calculated in their effects to distract and weaken the Whig party. He took his seat amid the applause of his large and enthusiastic auditory; when the committee, through their chairman T. A. DRY GUODS.

DECEMBER 17th, 1844. Gen. Chandler of New-Jersey in the Chair. Mr. Butler made some remarks about the use of salt mud as a manure, and said it was useless (to use lime, barn-yard manure, ashes, decomposing fish or something of the kind .- A letter was read giving an account of an experiment tried by Capt. Monson of Long Island upon a twelve acre lot, one-third of which he manured with poudrette, the other two-thirds with decayed fish, and one-third of all which he manured in the last mentioned mode, was pulled up by the birds. A specimen of mummy wheat was with following:

At a meeting of the Whigs of Painted Post, held at the village of Corning, Nov. 30th, 1344, LAURIN MALLORY, Esq. was called to the chair, and H. H. MALLORY, Esq. was called to the chair, and H.H.
HULL appointed Secretary.

T. A. Johnson, Esq., after having briefly stated the object of the meeting, occupied the attention of the audience nearly an hour, in the exposition of Whig principles, showing that their success was essential to the prosperity of the country; that though they had been foully beaten, by fraud, evasion and double dealing—by an unnatural union of antagonist factions, which could breed only discord in the victorious party, and that the Whigs had only to hold fast their integrity and present organization, to establish their principles at no distant day upon a broad and enduring basis.

Mr. Johnson closed his remarks by moving the appointment of a committee of five to draft resoluming was fill of the large. of manure abounded in grubs. Lime might be used with good advantage on salt meadows. Gen. Tall-madge was of the opinion that lime should be mixed with the salt mud, as this mud was full of the large of the grub, and the fermentation produced would destroy this larve. Mr. Butler said that line should not be used to produce fermentation, as this would only hatch the larve, while lime in fact would produce slow combustion. Mr. Kerr, a student of Agriculture, presented an analysis of the soil and meadow-muck of Mr. Pell. exhibited at the las-meeting. Some part of a letter was read by the Secretary, relative to making manure of salt-grass:

"By taking this grass in abundance to his barryard, wherein he kept 40 head of cattle, he could make more manure than he could use beneficially, make more manure than he could use beneficially, make it chesper, and he thought of a better quality than any he could get. His plan was to haul it from his baro-yard, fall and spring, pile it in as lerge heaps as possible, and on every two or three loads of his manure, to crew two or three hundred pounds of potashes, which he procured from the inspection houses in New-York, and then the whole was covered with sods, when it was left until it pile was covered with sods, when it was left until it was required to spread it, and then just before spreading he would turn it over."

The expense of this sort of manure, delivered on the field where it is used, is 50 cents a load.

Mr. Field exhibited to the meeting a fine specimen of the Shepherd dog, or as Mr. Hancock said, a cross between a gray-bound and harrier, having four black spots on the upper jaw. The mother of this dog could drive 600 sheep, or several hundred head of cattle. head of cattle.

Mr. Smith epened the subject before the the "Diseases of Cattle" very generally. Mr. Maigs had received information that the most fre-quent diseases in cattle brought to market, was disbutcher for thirty years, who had informed him that one-third of all the cattle slaughtered for this mar-ket had diseased livers. This butcher always subket had diseased livers. This butcher always submitted the carcase to the Jawish inspector, who marked it with a bit of lead and his beef was always good. There were various opinions given by several gentlemen upon the Jawish practice of bleeding cattle bafore they were killed. This practice is common in the New-York market, but it is not done in England or Europe. It has a tendency to produce fever in the animal. The Superintendent, Mr. Wakeman, gave some estimetes as to the number of beeves, &c. slaughtered yearly in New-York. Beeves, 52,000, or catimating about 650 pounds to the animal, 34,000,000 pounds; Sheep and Lambs, 150,000 lead. or 11,000,000 pounds; Hogs, 50,000 150,000 Fend, or 11,000,000 pounds; Hogs, 50,000 slaughtered in city, 150,000 from country, average weight of the lot 30,000,000; Calves, 10,000 to 15,-000. These statements were made upon the computation of three of the principal butchers in the city, who varied somewhat in their estimate. The statement, therefore, must be looked upon as an approximation only, quite as likely to be over the

Combines in itself a triad of properties possessed by no other THE LONDON ILLUSTRATED ALMANAC

"The London Illustrated Almanae abounds in excellent wood cuts, good Pootry, and useful information—a thing complete in its way."

"We have looked it over with more than ordinary pleasure. It is certainly one of the richest of its kind. The Illustrations are peculiarly happy. The literary matter is of more than ordinary cleverness. The notices on Natural History and Astronomical Appearances are very interesting—all illustrated to the very life. The merry youth and madean may here also find an assignant guide for the coming Holidays in 'Indoor Amusements.'"

"This is a most magnificent work. The aristical part of the work is most admirable. Almost every subject of unterest to all classes is touched upon. Every citizen should possess himself of one."

"This is a beautiful Almanae. It contains as much letter.

[American Advocate.

"This is a benutiful Almanac. It contains as much letterpress as an octavo volume, and is altogether the handsomest and most useful affair in the shape of an Almanac we have ever seen."

[True Sun. "A very pretty work, originally published at the London [Sun. "This a magnificent sheet, and will, we have no doubt, troulated extensively during the Holidays."

A MERICAN ELASTIC SUSPENDERS AND WEB.
BING.—The surprising perfection attained by tiss little improvements of the vulneriber in compounding lindle Rubber and adapting it to the manufacture of Elastic Webbing, by the six of his new machinery warrants him in saying that the Euspenders now offered for sale by him are the best ever made.

Among the advantages he claims in his mode of manufacture over that of Mr. Goodyner, is freedom from the sulpharrans smell so inseparable from G. 3. The peculiar and exclusive property of refaming their electricity, and the great increase of tiffness without additional built or weight. It is a common complaint among those who have used Mr. G. a suspenders that they knot their elacticity after being worn a four time—That is militely obvinted by Day's success, and denders in suspenders or webbing are lavited to crammot the roots in the peculiar of the contractive of the beating pattern, always on hand and force by T.
